Yes, we would like membership of Gramex on the terms below

Membership of Gramex is free and is subject to the statutes and policies of Gramex at any given time, which can be found at www.gramex.dk.

Gramex manages our communication to the public and broadcasting rights for published sound recordings in the Danish territory according to compulsory license in section 68 of the Danish Copyright Act. The management includes both existing and future rights.

We hereby transfer the rights to transmission to the public and copying, which Gramex is authorized to administer, cf. the Danish Copyright Act § 2, para. 4, no. 1 and § 66. Unless otherwise agreed, the transfer includes the mandates at any given time, as stated on www.gramex.dk. The remuneration for copying is distributed among the respective producers, and the producer undertakes to further distribute a share of the received remuneration to the affected artists in accordance with the established provisions in the specific contracts with the artists.

We authorize Gramex to enforce any infringement of the above rights and to take any legal or factual steps necessary to protect them.

We will contact Gramex if we subsequently wish to change the countries in which Gramex manages our rights.

Upon request from Gramex we undertake to provide Gramex with a list of the recordings we have made, or to which we have lawfully acquired the rights, and to promptly provide information when we have produced new sound recordings, or when we have acquired or transferred rights to other sound recordings.

- ☐ Yes please, we wish to receive Gramex' newsletter (in Danish) by e-mail with news from Gramex and the industry.
- If we do not wish to receive the newsletter, we will only receive essential member information from Gramex, such as notices for general assembly (if I'm a member).
- ☐ No thanks, we do not wish to be member of Gramex. That means,
- that Gramex will not administer our communication to the public and broadcasting rights for published sound recordings abroad
 - that we cannot participate in and vote at Gramex' general assembly
 - that Gramex will continue to administer our communication to the public and broadcasting rights for published sound recordings in Denmark in accordance with the compulsory license in Section 68 of the Danish Copyright Act and the current distribution rules of Gramex, as adopted by Gramex' general assembly. Remuneration is paid to the above-mentioned bank account, unless, for example, we are a member of a foreign sister organization covering the Danish territory. In that case, Gramex will pay remuneration to this sister organization. When Gramex represents us in Denmark, even if we choose not to be a member, it is due to the compulsory license in Section 68 of the Danish Copyright Act, which Gramex administers. Gramex is approved by the Ministry of Culture to collect payment for the use of published sound recordings in Denmark and pay remuneration either directly or through a representative.

We declare by our signature,

- that the above information is correct and complete, and that we will promptly inform Gramex of any changes, including a new address, bank account or email
- that remuneration is paid to the above-mentioned bank account
- that we undertake to provide, both voluntarily and upon request and without undue delay, any documentation necessary for the registration, monitoring, and settlement of our rights
- that we have read in full Gramex' privacy policy, available at www.gramex.dk/persondatapolitik
- that I am authorized to represent the above-mentioned company and sign this declaration with binding effect on behalf of the above-mentioned company
